Committees Get Axe At Council Session Wednesday

Harmful and fast-paced action marked the first regular session of the Belle Glade Commission here Wednesday night. Acting with two newly elected councilmen, the group abolished the recreation committee, included all its subcommittees and passed a ordinance regulating the opening and hours of operation of alcoholic beverage establishments.

The session also included another round in the city's tussle with Gus Tamm, Negro bar operator, and the success rate question for City Products Corporation.

A letter from Mrs. Ruth Wedgewood requested the status of the recreation committee. Commissioner Z. T. Ingram quickly moved to abolish Ordinance 900 which sets up the five-member committee as well as the youth center committee, swimming pool committee, Negro centers and parks and playgrounds committees.

Expressing the feeling that the council could work better with fewer committees and boards, Commissioner B. L. Lanier mentioned the motion to express the city's appreciation for the work the committees had done and state that the action in no way reflected on the personnel.

Two recreation committee members, C. A. Thompson and Joe Freidheim resigned when the council declined to appoint a recreation director as a department head during the last fiscal year.

Also receiving the axe was the recently-created five-member utility board set up to administer and control the sewer facilities.

Upon receipt of a request for transfer of G. S. Torrence's liquor permit to R. W. Griffin, the council agreed to await the state beverage department's ruling on a hearing set for Torrence in November.

The city's efforts to take away the license depends on what action the state beverage officials take since state laws are procedural.

A special resolution was adopted putting the council on record as opposing the change of hours or zoning of alcohol establishments in the city for expansion for a two-year period. Sections of the city ordinances in conflict with this resolution were later repealed.

Members of the Negro school officials to place a Negro junior college at Belle Glade was dismissed.

Rogers Discusses Dollar Diplomacy Federal Spending Threat To State's Rights And Screw Worm Eradication

"REPORT TO THE PEOPLE," by Congressman Paul Rogers was heard by Mrs. Margaret Mosley, Elementary School Supervisor and a guest of Rotary President George Royal (left) last Friday.

In his "Report to the People" campaign, Congressman Paul Rogers ended his speech to Rotarians Friday with the announcement that federal and state cooperation has been secured toward the eradication of screw worms, "which have been taking a ten million dollar toll annually in this state, from our cattle industry."

We might paraphrase the Congressmen's report as "Worms That Threaten Man and Beast."

"We do not believe in mud, noise or violence," the Congressman said, "but I do believe that the sending of federal troops to Little Rock was ill-advised, because there was no prior effort to reach an equitable solution—overruling state's rights in more jeopardy."

"The Congress refused to go along with the federal aid to school proposal. We adhere to the belief that schools should be held in the communities."

Plastics Firm Chooses Pahokee

Belle Glade's Golden Rams will visit Clewiston tonight seeking their second win in a row against an undefeated Tigers club which is favored to carry on their unbeaten ways.

Clewiston holds a neat 6-0 mark over the East Coast Seawolves, who finished the Rams 12-0, the other Tiger win came from Okeechobee.

If Seawrest was the same team against the Rams last week, then statistically speaking, the Clewiston gridiron could be a 3-point favorite against Coach Jim Maynor's boys who won their only game in a non-conference bout with the Indians.

It was the top of the bottom of the Suncoast Conference tonight since Belle Glade dropped their other conference to Lake Worth 13-0.

L. V. McClelland, Glades veterans service officer, invites all persons interested in information on veterans' problems to visit his office in the Sanders Building on Mondays, Wednesdays or Fridays.

He further stated that this was the position that is taken by a very small percent of the world population, but the position that creates leaders in all fields of endeavor.

Attorney Announces Bond Validation Is Proceeding Rapidly

City Attorney Claude Jones announced Wednesday night that the 20-day appeal period for the city's $600,000 revenue bond validation proceedings had passed without any forthcoming objection.

He went on to say that he expected the clerk of the circuit court to issue the sufficient to that effect and validation attorneys at Chicago will begin their final checks. Bonds should be ready to sign within a short time.

Meanwhile, B. A. Powers, contractor for the water treatment plant, was expected to receive the contract for that project today.

The attorney introduced certain documents to authorize construction funds and to reserve and fund agreements with Florida National Bank at Belle Glade and Miami. The agreements were adopted in accordance with the city's ordinance dealing with this bond issuance.

Record Tax Roll Entered By County

A record tax roll, one that will cost Palm Beach County taxpayers a million dollars a month, was submitted to the Finance Commission Monday by James Owens, county tax assessor.

The commission, by statute, is required to receive the tax roll on the first Monday in October.

Owens told the board total taxes to be collected by all sources during the year will be $100,000,000.

He further stated that the county's share of the tax revenue is $4.4 million with the balance of collections going to the Port of Palm Beach, Central and South Florida Flood Control District, drainage districts, hospital districts and special road and bridge districts.

Owens presented the topic in accordance with other fire prevention week features, stressed that business men make safety a part of their business and homes. Film on fire safety was distributed by the National Fire Underwriters through Dan Carpenter & Son Agency here, was shown.

In other business at the meeting, president Wierseng announced that teams were now selling insertions for their yearly calendar and that the Lions Fire Department's night festivities in November.

After hearing from Mrs. Edwina Young, executive secretary of the Belle Glade Chamber of Commerce, the club at their Wednesday luncheon meeting at the municipal country club, Cecil Bair, assistant Belle Glade Fire Chief was honored.

Civitans Plan Special Project

City's Insurance Rates On Liability Reduced

The city of Belle Glade automobile liability insurance rates have been reduced 40% in what has been termed experience credit on the renewal of the policy by Harris Insurance Agency.

In a letter to the city, Junius Harris said:

"Due to the excellent safety record of vehicles owned and operated by the city of Belle Glade, we have been authorized by the company to offer the automobile liability insurance for the city to notify you that you are to receive a 40% experience credit on the renewal of your insurance."

"In the face of a rising accident rate in this entire area," the letter continued, "this is certainly a record to be proud of."

The special equipment to be furnished by Civitans will allow the use of the 16 rpm

Incumbents Win At South Bay Polls By Wide Margins After Heavy Vote

Port Buzzes With Folks Attending Water Show Staged By Boat Club

South Bay voters turned in record numbers Oct. 9 to re-elect two incumbent city councilmen and re-elect their police chief for yet another term.

Total of 435 votes was presented to be counted by the election board over by former city clerk, E. C. Crow. Actual total of voters registered at South Bay is vague since many persons listing at the dock site.

All three victors won by wide margins as Ray Sullivan and Henry Elfers defeated Jesse Barnes and H. B. Walker. Chief of Police M. M. Martin Davis pulled away from his lone opponent in that race by 114 votes. A. J. White was 85 votes ahead of former chief R. C. White.

Results of the election are expected to be approved at the Oct. 14 council meeting.

Complete tabulations:

Pet. Pet. Totals

The political scene, therefore, was not changed as far as personalities was concerned. The other three councilmen, Mayor F. J. McLean, D. L. Wheeler and S. J. Fisher each have one more year to serve.

"Graveyards" were set up in South Bay to "bury" the defeated candidates and epitaphs on tombstones caried out by former members which poked fun at the three-man ticket which allegedly supported at least some of the defeated men in the running.

Roberts Named On Powerful Council Of Legislature

The Speaker of the House and the President of the Senate each appoint eight members, one from each congressional district to serve on the Legislative Council, with the chairman of the council selected by the Speaker.

The speaker, in his own research, search and, if possible, gather information and make recommendations to the legislature on major legislation to aid the Senate and House in their work.

A recommendation for, or the disapproval of this group of any proposed law generally decided by the two bodies, and for that reason membership in the council is limited to six legislative districts.

Though not of the original group supporting the independent speaker, Emmett Roberts was named to the council by him through the recommendation of older members of both Houses.

Whatever county has a member on this powerful 16-man Council is considered favored, as it is represented in the shape of its legislative delegation to come.

Mr. Roberts is receiving the congratulations of organizations and individuals throughout the county on his appointment to this distinguished group of Florida legislators.

Extra! The Rams won their first game of the football season by defeating Central Catholic. Phil Grant scored both touchdowns. Now we're off to a fast half-time show. Neil Kilkough did a great job as head coach.

Around School

The Annual Staff has started selling annuals again. This deadline is October 15 so get your money in. Student selling annuals are Delores Robbins, Dewitt Draa, Marsha Walker, and Sandra Gove.

The big game with Clewiston is coming up. Clewiston is one of our most important rivals, and everyone is looking forward to the game. We surely hope the Rams will win this one!

Students' dress are finally over! We are all finished with the last minute cramping. Now we can sit back and relax for another few weeks.

The next regular meeting of the FFA is Oct. 18. It will be a fun supper. The members will come dressed in the costume of for-eign countries.

All seniors must have their fall pictures taken and will be tested in October 18. Give them to Jay Freeman and Linda Gail Mobley.

RAM-bling On. The newest band around school this year is the new tape recorder. Some students insist that the voice they hear played back is not their own.

We hear that Molly Farnon has a new baby girl. Her new nickname? - Mike. Challenor received a broken nose at football practice. We hope he gets back in action soon.

Belle Glade School Cafeteria Menu

October 14 - October 18 Monday - Spaghetti with meat sauce, Carriage, Pineapple Salad, Cookie, Bread and Buttermilk.

Whip Training

Comin' into town the other day I stopped to watch some youngsters breaking a colt to saddle. They were gentle, talkin' to him all the time, rubbin' his back and holdin' the saddle while he got so he'd get used to it.

As I was watching I thought about what I could see better than training. A whip round on the halter and a "kinner's" whip. When the colt turned away from the training post cut with the whip. The colt learned that he had to turn back to stand still all the time.

From where I'm sittin' there's two ways to hold people in line,

William (Bill) D. Burr, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. Burr of 251 S.E. Avenue F, Belle Glade is expected to arrive home from Great Lakes Naval Training Center.

Bill as he is known here was assigned squad leader of his recruit company at the Training Center and as a recruit patrol officer wore a miniature rating during his remaining nine weeks of Boot Camp. He was chosen for the position in recognition of leadership qualities displayed while undergoing training. Graduating from the Great Lakes Naval Training School, Oct. 5, Bill will spend ten days here with his parents before leaving for his base in November. While there he will attend 8 weeks of course in airman training. After completing training there he will take technical air training for four months at a naval school.

Miss Margaret Walker Leads Active Life As South Bay School Teacher

Many people believe that polio patients, when not confined to iron lungs or other therapeutic devices, lead confined, sheltered or delicate lives away from the jet-propelled pace of modern civilization.

This is not the case with Miss Margaret Walker, who entered her second year this September as a teacher at the South Bay School.

Sixteen when she was 20 months old, Miss Walker's earliest memories are of braces and crutches and treatment. Her case was supposed to have been one of the most severe cases on record when she first contracted polio as the result of the complications of whooping cough.

When your days just don't go right, if you've got aches and pains in the back or head, if you feel like you're standing still and every thing done is done wrong, take this reporter's advice and have a chat with me. You'll feel better when you do.

Talk about anything. About Europe, teaching, hobbies or the weather. It might be difficult to find a topic of conversation which would not be one of her favorites.

About polio? Miss Walker will tell you that polio left her with permanent damage. Once, her left hand and right arm were useless. One day she discovered that she couldn't stand up. Her father, a doctor, told her it was polio, however, doctors disagreed. Not too long, she was known about polio then. One doctor said he didn't know what it was, but it didn't matter, she had to get along anyway. Then came the late Dr. Willis Campbell, a Memphis physician with an international reputation. Through his care, she could walk again.

Since then, she's been everywhere for treatment except the Mayo Clinic. Quite frankly, Miss Walker says, "I always thought that I didn't deserve any credit for my accomplishments. There wasn't an adjustment needed if I were older when I contacted polio."

She gives much of the credit for her active life to her grandmother. "She never brought up to be sorry for myself or myself I never. My grandmother taught me not to be ashamed. I did everything my sisters did, only I had to do it with braces and crutches. I even tried horseback riding."

"Most of us have something that's a little different from others. We must accept it and make the best of it. I can do it, rather than allow ourselves to be frustrated for that which we can't help," she says.

Miss Walker is a native of Louisville, Kentucky. She was a bookkeeper and secretary before entering the teaching profession. She attended Bell Haven College at Jackson as well as the University of Mississippi.

She always wanted to come to Florida, and her chance came in 1956 when Pellon Morris, then principal of South Bay School, contacted her through the university's placement service. She got position licensed for the job she wanted, moved to the area, and became a teacher.

She has met with varied reaction to her braces and crutches. In some instances, she was amusing, she recalled. Some people thought she was handicapped, she couldn't hear or speak!

In Florida there isn't a town or city of any size that she hasn't visited.

Playing piano and all kinds of reading are other hobbies which take up much of her time. Although active in clubs and church work while in college, she hasn't become nearly so active here, although she plays cards a more active part.

"I'm not much of a joiner," she quipped.

Her auto has a special automatic transmission with gears on the left-hand side of the steering column for accelerator and brake. She first learned about such a special car from a veteran. She got one soon afterward.

"It's good health," she said, "and I can do most of the school activities. Some school authorities (elsewhere) think I'm not capable. Many handicapped people have that problem."

She was quick to counter that the way people may walk has nothing to do with their professional capabilities.

"People are really wonderful. They're nice and helpful and glad to be helpful," she said. "I've never met anyone who was downright ugly about my assistance I might have required."

We thank Miss Walker for this reporter's first interview with a polio patient. She was right; she doesn't need any help. In fact, she helped us.

"Talking book" records among several pupils at one time with disturbing the rest of the class.

In the Glades area Miss Elaine McCabe is working with speech therapy in grades two through six while Mrs. Jeanette Boyd and Mrs. Ruth Smith, Jr. are working with remedial reading and home-bound teaching.

Of the 27 pupils at the Pahokee branch of the school, 21 are from Belle Glade.

The high rate of rehabilitation of those receiving help through this program for exceptional children was pointed out in that 70 percent attending the Royal Palm School are in the regular school system by the time they reach Junior High School. It was pointed out that the best success is found where the speech improvement is started early and it is recommended that the speech improvement program be started in the first grade. In Belle Glade two third grade students are being furnished special reading books with exceptionally large type.

As examples of improvement in Royal Palm students, Mrs. Crick cited one boy who at six years of age, not understanding what he could be understood, and who was back in the regular school system four years later, and subsequently was among a group of Boy Scouts sent on an international tour of Europe. Another student with speech difficulty so improved through the help of the school that he was quarterback for the local coast high school football team.

Mrs. Crick pointed out that the funds for the operation of the Royal Palm School and other schools in the state is provided from funds which are budgeted separately from those for operation of the regular school program.

Among the needs listed were clothing which was pointed out by Mrs. Crick were needs for craft material for ceramics, and woodworking, special books, a typewriter, and for the record plan with earthenware which the local Civitans have assumed as a project.

Lee Wilson Catches Sailfish 6 Ft. 4 In.

Lee Wilson of 1501 N. W. 4th Street had a successful deep sea fishing trip to Stuart. While fishing with Captain Ray Young aboard the "Spray" Mr. Wilson had the thrill of landing a 6 ft. 4 in. sailfish. Stuart Sailfish Club, world renowned conservation group, has issued a citation and bronze button in recognition of the catch. Stuart is known as "The Sailfish Capital of the World."

New Manager Named At Royal's Department Store

A. C. Wallace, formerly chief engineer for Wool Plastering Company of Hialeah, has been a m d store manager for Royal's Department Store here. Wallace, who has 26 years experience in the plastering field, started at the store Oct. 2. A native of Tennessee, he attended Ohio State University studying in the field of accounting two years.

Wallace and his wife, Mary, are members of the Baptist church and hope to take part in community activities as soon as possible.

Permit Sought For New Fish Camp On Rim Canal

Application has been made to the Department of the Army by Jim Maynor and Mark Challancin for a permit to authorize dredging of a property on the Lake Okeechobee Rim Canal immediately north of SR 717.

The site is being readied for a boat slip-fish camp and is located on the southeastern shore of Torry Island about 60 feet north of the bridge on SR 717.

No public hearing will be held on the application. The permit is merely a waiver of certain zoning laws as public rights of navigation are concerned. Protests based on the effects on public navigation should be sent to the District Engineer at Jacksonville.

Maynor and Challancin announced earlier this month that they would construct such a camp which The Herald reported at that time.

Bobcats Bow To Roosevelt 19-6

A green, outmanned Lake Shore High School team was a grid iron which kept a capricious crowd on their feet during the final gun sounded. In a clash, marked by savage line play, the Maroon Devils captured three Belle Glade errors to punch over two TD's in the final score of 19-6.

Palm Beach scored in the first quarter when Merchant romped 35 yards for a score. Belle Glade stormed right back to the score 6-6.

Belle Glade's defense began to click and the highly touted running attack of the Devils was held to just 10 yards in the half time ceremonies featured the crowning and presentation of marching Queen Marcelline of Belle Glade and Miss Rosemary of Belle Glade. The "Bobcats" first home game will be October 24th with Attacks. High Marching Band thrilled onlookers with an elaborate musical extravaganza.

The opening of the third quarter saw the Bobcats out in front 10-6. James Parker who was named "Black Of The Week," Parker returned two punts 70 yards and 20 yards respectively, and picked up 100 yards.

His running mate Eddie Colman picked up 79 yards in 12 carries. On offense the Bobcats ground out 265 yards on the ground while limiting Palm Beach to 10 yards. James Parker was named "Black Of The Week." The "Bobcats" first home game will be October 24th with Attacks. High Marching Band thrilled onlookers with an elaborate musical extravaganza.

Pharmacist Speaks At High School Assembly

Bob Wilson, pharmacist at Sullivan's Pharmacy here, goes before a general assembly at Bell Glade High School at 9:30 this morning to explain the potential job opportunities in the field of pharmacy as part of the drug store's observance of National Pharmacists Week.

Wilson will briefly explain the various positions in which pharmacists may specialize such as hospital, pharmacy, research and teaching as well as product development.

He is a student and plans to practice his profession after completing his studies.

Special training and high abilities are required, the rewards will be great.

There are 65 different jobs for pharmacists, many of which require a college degree of pharmacy in the United States. Wilson will extend an invitation to all those interested to come in to the store and learn the possibilities of entering the field.

In a letter from David C. Edridge, administrative assistant to the Florida State Turnpike Authority, Roberts was notified of the authority's action this week.

Roberts had sought the signature of the Belle Glade Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors. The director's request came after it was learned that all cities accessible from the highway were listed; however, the city was not available at this time as to what other cities might be included on the signs.

Board of Appeals Named

At the Oct. 9 city commission meeting, the council approved the appointment of Milton Burge, H. Dran, Walter Miller, William Evans and Z. T. Ingram as the city's zoning board of appeals.

DO YOU KNOW . . . ?

No! The home may be built on a lot less than 90 x 130 feet in East Lake Park?

Stars Make Plans For Coming Events

Order of Eastern Star Chapter 197 conducted its first fall meeting Thursday night at the Benevolent Hall with Mrs. Dorothy Gruber presiding in the absence of Mrs. Agnes Baker, worthy matron.

Miss Mary B. Rector, chairman of banquet committee, announced the official visit of the grand matron, Mrs. Margaret S. Thomas B. Costain. This book is about an elderly S. Senator, concerned that the citizens of the modern free world take their hard won liberties too much for granted, reveals a closely guarded secret. He believes in the reincarnation of a Saxon fundamentalist present when the Magna Charta was signed. He tells how he accompanied his master to England and assisted in the rescue of King Edward VIII. Eleanor of Brittany, and found asylum in Ireland. The result is a stirring tale and a lifelike picture of the 13th century and its notable figures.

Vows by Patrick White. The setting is Australia in the mid-seventeenth century, a busy colonial town with its merchants, soldiers, their wives and sweethearts, its balls, parties and picnics. This is a book of many depths and surfaces.

Sydney, with its large colony of men and women, is on the tradition of the novel of manners. Its narrative of adventure in the wild continent is vivid proof of Patrick White's ability to carry the reader into another world.

Large Amounts Of Water Used In FCD

Nearly two billion gallons of water are used every day for beneficial purposes in the 17 counties of the Central and South Florida Flood Control District.

According to a tabulation prepared by the Florida Water Resources Study Commission, the chief beneficial uses of water are municipal, agricultural, industrial and recreational.

Broward, Hendry and Indian River Counties use two million gallons of water for municipal purposes, on the average, each day. Volusia uses one million, Polk 17 and Orange 18. Dade county ranks first in municipal water use in the Flood Control District with 85 million gallons per year. Marion county uses 52, and Palm Beach 27.

Palm Beach county uses an average of 300 million gallons of water for agricultural purposes, on the average each day, whereas the second ranking county, Orange, uses 86 and St. Lucie, the third in rank, uses 77.

Polk county uses about 233 million gallons of water on the average each day, while the next heaviest user for this purpose is Broward, followed closely by Dade and Volusia counties.

Recreational use of water can be judged from Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission reports for all Florida which indicate that while 333,000 regular fishing licenses were sold in a recent year, it is estimated that 500,000 will be sold in 1970. Fresh water fishermen recently spent $12,154,000 to pursue this sport, while recreational boating enthusiasts spent $255,000,000 for their hobby.

The Flood Control District responsible to all the multiple agencies involved will have to increase as population and industry continue to use the natural resources within its 17 county area.

First Fish To Ft. Lauderdale

MR. AND MRS. ROSS WINNE

Catfish and Ft. Lauderdale, for a period of years, were like hand and eggs, or Amos and Andy, or "Dad" and "Dale," synonymous. Runabouts by the score tied up to her fish houses, Carlots of catfish every day departed for St. Louis, where by some modern alchemy, they were transmuted into Alaska salmon.

Credit for piloting the first load of fish from the lake to Ft. Lauderdale is claimed by that old timer, Ross Winne, a man, Ross Winne, who came to the lake with his young wife and eight months old infant on January 3rd, 1912. Ross and Gertrude had been living the few remaining of the older settlers on Lake Okeechobee, and are well worth knowing. They raised six mighty creditable young'uns among those island custard apples. One daughter, Mary, was, for a time, editor of the Belle Glade Herald.

When Ross arrived on the lake, all fish were boated to Ft. Myers which, due to the serpentine convolutions of the picturesque Caloosahatchee River, took 125 miles to get to Ft. Myers. Fish were being hauled by Ed Lang and Al Powers in runboat "Mabel." When, in October of 1912, they informed him that the dam in North New River Canal had been removed, he agreed to accompany them on a trial run to Ft. Lauderdale.

With 12,000 pounds of fish under hatchet and adventure in their hearts, the lumberjacks piled into the boat and crossed three miles of lake, the good boat "Mabel" bounded between wind-congested swamps into the swift current of the New River Canal. A mile of custard apple and she emerged into the glistening sea. Eight miles down the river, they found a 28 arrow-straight miles brought them to Twenty Six Mile Bend (also known as Andytown). Here loomed two giant wooden oil storage tanks reservoirs for the dredgeboat's fuel. Upon rounding this bend, Winnie's heart skipped a beat. The dam had not been removed? Three more narrow gaps the waters from the lake spewed to the turn around.

Ross safely steered her through. The canal bent to the left at Twenty Mile Bend for a straight shot east to the narrow, tree-covered New River. But now a greater peril threatened! The narrow inlet suddenly widened into a circular basin. Swift current rotated majestically, spiraling toward the center. Clumps of hyacinths, drawn toward its middle, whirled dizzily and vanished in its yawning vortex.

This was the dreaded Whirlpool, reputedly bottomless, a lateral of the Charlotte, believed by many to be the original source of New River. It was here that the two tanks conserves the largest freight boat, and boil and spout in its wake like a witch's cauldron. The whirlpool now is but a wide place in the river graced by air-conditioned homes, but in the early days it was the subject of many a chilling tale.

This was quickly passed. "Mabel" flew for the railroad bridge and tied to the dock at the foot of Ft. Lauderdale's only business street, Brickell Avenue. A block from the dock a canvas awning, Ed Caruth (Hodget Ed) greeted and fed them, and for dessert assurred their thirst from his under-counter bar. The fish house, he informed them, was across the river on the highest point. The dining room, accordingly, was filled with shanty banks, and they say it is not masked. You seem to have a good sea boat. I expect the safest way is to go outside."

Regrettably, they proceeded down the river to the lone concreted at the beach, then out through the inlet. The tide was ebbing and the wind blew hard onshore. Ross headed the plumping, overloaded boat into the tossing breakers. Seas swept the deck. "Turn around!" shrieked Lang, unused to Neptune's pranks, "We can never make it!" "We'll get you make it now," Winnie replied, "It's sure too late to turn around."

Three heavy seas came aboard but the well-hatched hatchet and the outside run was uneventful. Off Miami Beach, while overtaken by a sudden squall, the faithful engine conked out. A waddled newspaper used in lieu of a gas tank cap had dropped off the tank. The propeller mache had so effectively clogged the intake that it had become a pinhead with wire, after the line had been disjointed, pieces by pieces.

During this diversion, the squall-propelled boat was proceeding rapidly back toward Ft. Lauderdale. Lang heaved over the anchor with 80 feet of rope. The rope hung up and down. What was it? The boat was running backtracking a couple of miles, the engine again was started. The men ample time to observe the buildings on Miami Beach, both of them. One was the House of Refuge, built to shelter shipwrecked sailors, the other a structure which appeared to be a barn.

Entering Government Cut, they crossed the bay and proceeded up the river to J. G. Croslan's Miami Fish Company. Here they were welcomed, and paid $5 per pound for their bass and 3¢ for crappies, 2¢ more than they could have got on the lake. The total gain was $240.00 in extra spending change, which in accord with the times, was quite logically invested in a cargo of whiskey.

Upon their return to Ft. Lauderdale, as a generous share-the-wealth gesture, this was lavishly distributed to all and sundry. The resulting Mardi Gras was an occasion not seen to be forgotten. Many an old timer there can still remember when the first fish came from Lake Okeechobee.

Shellfish Packers Under New Ruling

A requirement in effect since Sept. 1 will force shellfish processors in the state to dispense packaged products only, states C. C. Rhodes, sanitarian with the Palm Beach County Health Department. Shellfish processors must now contain oysters from a large container and repack them in smaller containers, making it impossible for food stores, markets and similar establishments to effect this memorandum.

The only exception to this ruling is in the case of institutions, such as hospitals, who will appear in a water-ballet at the homecoming game on Oct. 19 when the Gators play Mississippi State.
